Not so natural after all! Courtney Stodden undergoes boob job after boasting she was '100% surgery free'

By GEORGE STARK

PUBLISHED: 13:13 EST, 17 June 2013 | UPDATED: 01:21 EST, 18 June 2013

Share | Tweet | +1 | Share | 219 shares | 301 View comments

She once revealed that her body was '100% surgery free' after having an ultrasound on live television.

But now 18-year-old Courtney Stodden has had a change of heart after undergoing breast enhancement surgery in Los Angeles.

The teen bride was seen visiting Plastic surgeon Dr Stuart Linder for consultation and eventual surgery at the weekend.

Scroll down for video

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

What happened to all natural? Courtney Stodden is seen arriving at the hospital with markings on her breasts after having a consultation

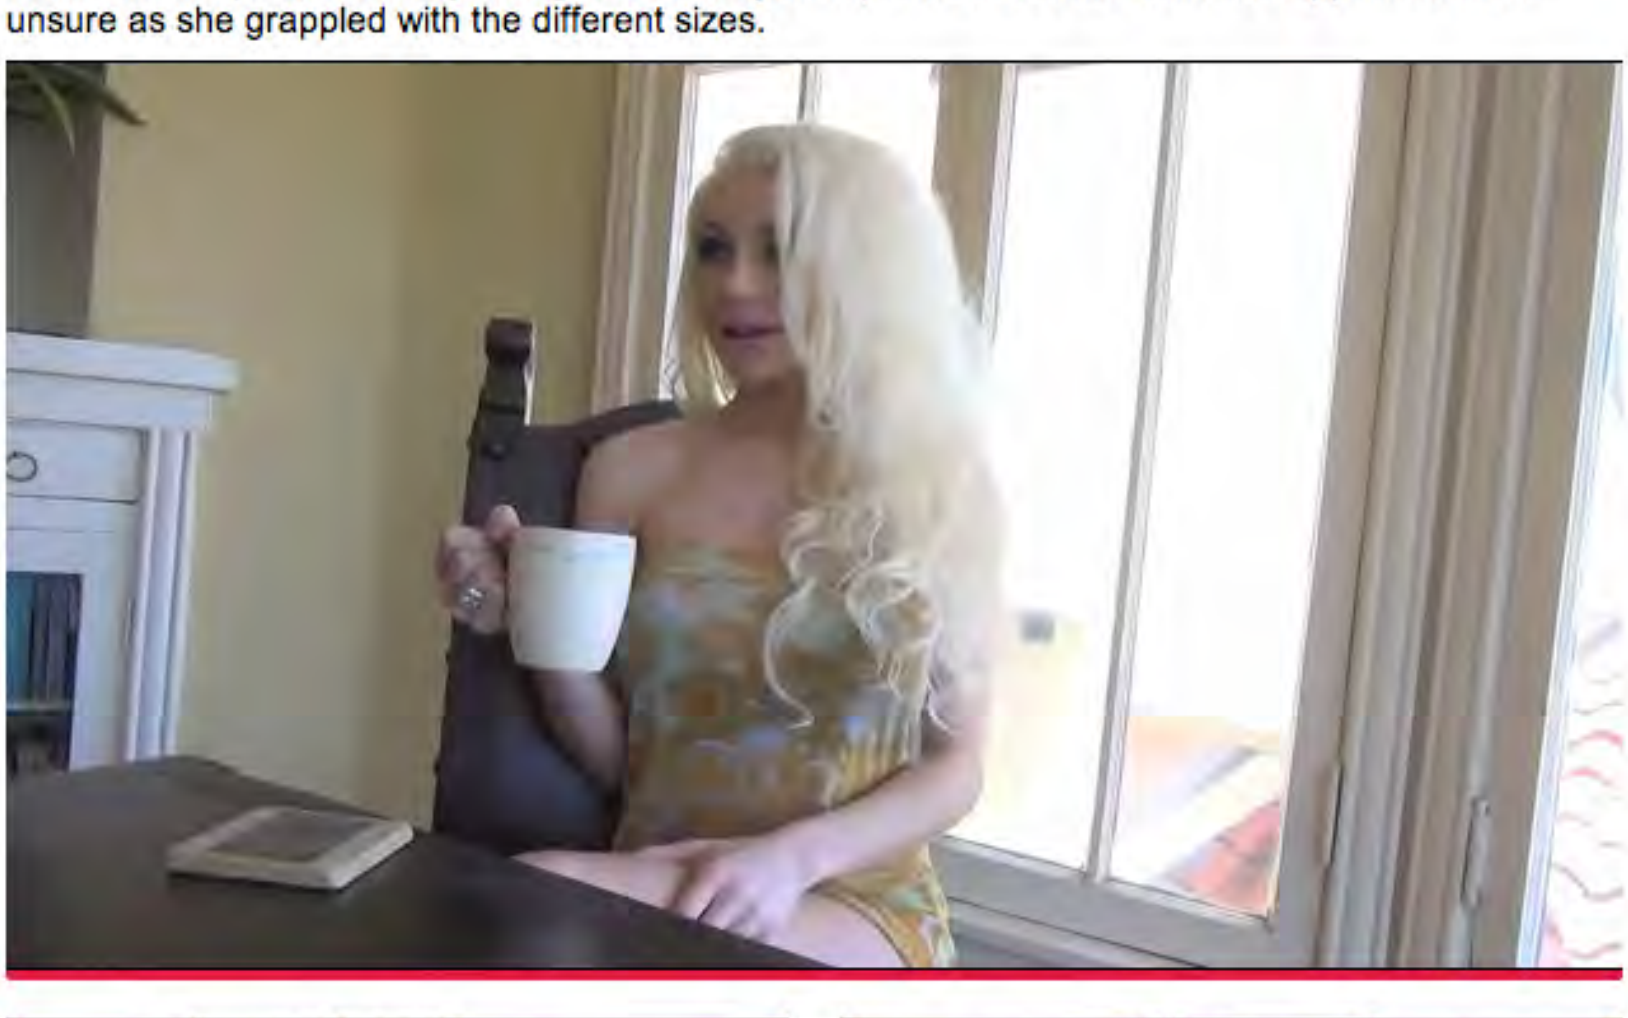
© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Big decision: Courtney chats with a friends about the severe surgery that she is about to undergo

Courtney was pictured arriving at the hospital in LA, chaperoned as ever by her 53-year-old husband Doug Hutchison.

The 5'6" Green Mile actor is seen encouraging his teen bride as she nervously arrived for the extreme operation.

Inside the hospital, Courtney was given a bevvy of implants to choose from and appeared to be unsure as she grappled with the different sizes.



© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner © Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Preparations: Dr Stuart Linder draws surgical markings onto Courtney's chest ahead of her operation

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Unsure: Courtney appeared to procrastinate about the size of her implants, eventually going for a DD-cup

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

The one that she wants: Courtney Stodden clings on to the chosen saline implant that she has chosen for her surgery

Courtney opted for a DD-cup size saline implant, boosting her already large breasts.

Having made the decision of her new cup size, the model was seen going under local anesthetic as her much older husband Doug leaned in to give her a kiss.

It's a surprise turnaround for the young star who has gone to great to lengths to prove that she's never been under the knife before.

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Big day: Courtney looks understandably terrified as she makes her way to begin the invasive surgery

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Ready? Courtney arrives at the operating table and shakes hands with Dr Stuart Linder who is about the perform the operation

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Medical records: Dr Stuart Linder takes a photo of Courtney before the surgery as her husband Doug keeps a watchful eye

In October last year, Courtney visited plastic surgeon Dr Marc Mani for an examination to prove that she was surgery free.

'People are saying I've had everything from a nose job to having my lips done to cheek implants - everything,' Courtney said at the time.

Dr Mani concluded: 'So I looked at all the areas, Courtney, that might tell someone that you have had plastic surgery and it's pretty clear to me that as a Beverly Hills plastic surgeon, Courtney has not had any plastic surgery.'

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Under the knife: Doug Hutchison appears to be praising Dr Stuart Linder before he begins the operation

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Sealed with a kiss: Doug kisses a heavily sedated looking Courtney Stodden

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Going under: Courtney had previously claimed that she was 100% surgery free, which has all changed now after the operation

However a month later there were doubts when Courtney underwent another test on live television that revealed a mysterious bump under her muscle near her breasts.

Dr. Drew claimed that it could be an implant, but strangely Courtney But that's all changed now that Courtney has had breast surgery.

Courtney - who is hardly ever seen without her trustee husband by her sider - denied it was an implant.

Following surgery, Courtney is seen signing papers with her older husband Doug

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner © Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Supportive: Doug Hutchison departs the hospital with his teen bride

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Aftermath: Courtney Stodden is seen looking tired and exhausted after the operation as she leaves the hospital with Doug Hutchison

She said strangely: 'Unless someone drugged me and did the operation without me knowing, it isn't,'

Doug then said unsurely: 'You see? Why would she go on national TV if they weren't real?'

She added: 'I've had nothing. A knife has never touched this body,'

But that's all change now, as Courtney has had through the nipple surgery to give her brand new double D size saline breasts.

No doubt the exhibitionist will now enjoy showing off her new bra size is various states of undress.

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Pink: Courtney wore a pink tracksuit as she left the hospital and appeared to be suffering somewhat

© Glen McCurtayne/Coleman-Rayner

Recovery: Courtney appears to be in pain as she is wheeled out of the hospital by a nurse

AdChoices
Saturday, February 23rd
Get to know WILLIAMS HOMES
2 new neighborhoods to tour in premiere Ventura County locations.
Register Today >>
WILLIAMSHOMES.com

FEMAIL TODAY

▸ Edie Falco cuts a sad figure as she mourns for onscreen husband Sopranos star James Gandolfini
Sopranos star looked heartbroken in New York

▸ It's North West! Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's daughter's name is leaked... but they'll call her Nori for short
Baby's name revealed five days after birth

▸ Anything LeAnn can do! Brandi Glanville shows Rimes up in a tiny pink bikini as she frolics alone on the beach
Stripped down to a tiny pink two-piece

▸ Daddy's little girl! John Travolta takes daughter Ella Bleu, 13, as his date to Killing Season premiere
The proud father was in New York City

▸ Pale, drawn and without her wedding ring, Nigella emerges from sister's apartment as husband Saatchi dines alone at THAT restaurant